Airman Suicide Victim

Negro Fatally Shoots Himself Here Tuesday

A/IC Curtis Stanton, 45, of the 340th Installation Squadron, Whiteman AFB, fatally wounded himself about 3:30 p.m. Tuesday at 311 East Pettis. He died enroute to the Bothwell Hospital.

Stanton was found in an outside toilet building at the address by Margaret Cruse who resides at 311 East Pettis. The woman told Dr. C. G. Stauffacher, coroner, that she found the man when she went into the backyard to hang up some sheets. She said she heard him making a noise and when she opened the door he had fallen to the floor and against a west wall.

The woman called for help but when F. D. Miles and another man went to the scene they found he apparently had been shot and told her to call the law. The woman went to Miles' home at 309 East Pettis and called the police from there.

Miles told Dr. Stauffacher and the police he heard a shot while he was eating in his kitchen. He said he went out in back of his house thinking that someone might be shooting in the alley. Seeing nothing he returned to his meal and a few minutes later was called by Margaret Cruse.

On the floor near the body was an old American Bulldog 38-caliber revolver. The woman said she picked it up and laid it on the toilet seat.

He was taken to the Bothwell hospital in the Ewing ambulance but died enroute.

The Cruse woman said Stanton had come to her house Monday night and brought some groceries as was a custom. He visited there and then stayed all day Tuesday. She said that he was a man who was very quiet, had little to say and spent most of his time reading comic books and such.

At no time did he indicate any such act and apparently he wasn't despondent. She said that he talked with her a few minutes before going to the out building and offered to help her with the washing. She said he had not been drinking very much as he had no more than a six-pack of beer during the day, and told her that he would go after some for her later.

He left the house, and went to the building. She said he oft times remained there from 20 to 30 minutes and never thought anything about his absence until she went out to hang up the sheets and then found him.

She also told Dr. Stauffacher she never knew he had a gun with him at any time.

Dr. Stauffacher upon examining the body found the bullet had entered the head about two inches above the right ear. The bullet lodged inside the head. Dr. Stauffacher said an inquest was not necessary and it apparently was a case of suicide.

Papers found in the man's wallet indicated he was an A/IC in the Air Force and a member of the 340th Installation Squadron, at Whiteman AFB.

The body was taken to the base. A/IC Stanton is survived by his wife, Elizabeth Stanton, of Athens, Ga. There were no children according to Air Force authorities.

Stanton arrived at Whiteman AFB on June 29, 1955. He entered the service early in the 1940's. He was a veteran of World War II and served overseas in the Pacific Theatre of Operations. He recently returned from a tour of duty in Japan.

BANKER WINDS UP IN CHAINS—Hand manacled, former bank president Edward Hintz, convicted for his part in embezzlement of more than a million dollars from the state of Illinois, winds up on the end of a chain as he is led from a Senate banking and currency committee inquiry in Chicago. Guarding him is state policeman Harry Dowden, right. The committee is seeking to learn why Orville Hodge stole the money, involving Hintz and several others. Hodge is former Illinois state auditor. ### Two Refuse to Talk--

Top Three Figures Appear In Illinois Swindle Hearing

CHICAGO (AP) — The top three figures in Illinois' 1½-million-dollar state swindle appeared before a Senate committee yesterday—but two refused to talk and the other was accused of lying.

The big man in the massive state check-cashing scheme—Orville E. Hodge, imprisoned former state auditor—answered some questions but drew the anger of Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.), committee chairman.

"You are lying to this committee," Fulbright told Hodge.

The other two men—also imprisoned for their part in the huge fraud—are Edward A. Hintz, former president of the Southmoor Bank in Chicago, who cashed Hodge's illegal state checks, and Edward A. Epping, chief lieutenant in Hodge's office, who said he was the Republican auditor's "messenger boy."

Hodge declined to answer questions while TV, still and motion picture cameras and recording machines were operating in the hearing held behind by the Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

Hodge testified, but continued his objection to being personally televised and TV cameras avoided his face.

Fulbright offered to make the same arrangement for Hintz but the portly 67-year-old banker refused. Fulbright then said he will recommend that Hintz, who is serving a three-year prison sentence, be cited for contempt of the Senate. He did not say he would make such a recommendation against Epping, who is serving a five-year prison sentence.

Hodge's testimony included statements that:

His campaigns for the GOP nomination as state auditor in the 1952 spring primary and in the subsequent November election cost about $200,000—none of it stolen money.

No one else got any of the embezzled money.

He is not "covering up" for anybody and was not a target for blackmailers or extortionists.

Neither reported nor paid federal income taxes on the state cash he pocketed.

He and Fulbright clashed repeatedly as the committee chairman sought information about "others involved in the conspiracy." In retort to Fulbright's ac-

Berserk Men Hold Children As Hostages

Police Stop Effort To Lynch Brothers After Capture

TERRAZZANO, Italy (AP)—Police stormed a village school tonight and liberated 85 children and 4 teachers held prisoner for ransom by two berserk brothers.

The children—between 6 and 10 years old—had been held at gunpoint six hours by Arturo and Osvaldo Sampato, who demanded two million lire—$380,000—to release them.

A full battalion of National Police attacked the building after the director of an asylum for the criminally insane from which one brother recently was released warned that the youth was growing more maniacal by the moment.

The brothers had threatened to blow up the children with dynamite or scar them with acid unless given the money.

Italian police, long prevented from shooting by the brothers' use of the girl teachers as shields, finally went in with guns blazing.

They wounded both Arturo, the madman, and Osvaldo, the younger brother whom police described as a near-moron under Arturo's domination.

Near-hysterical parents tried to lynch the pair when, manacled, they were brought into a courtyard outside the two-story school. Police fought back the crowd and took them away.

Moments later the children streamed out into the arms of weeping parents.

Arturo pumped two bullets at his own sister just before the police assault. She had been trying to persuade him to give up.

The brothers' father also was on the scene.

"I knew he never should have been let out of the asylum," the father cried.

The younger brother seemed the more seriously wounded.

A microphone was thrust into the school by police at the end of a long pole.

"Give us 200 million lire—$380,000—or there will be reprisal against the children," one of the two said.

Eisenhower again rapped back at the proposals of his Democratic opponent, Adlai E. Stevenson, calling for a halt in the draft as soon as that is possible consistent with national safety and for this country to take the lead toward suspension of big-scale nuclear tests.

And he devoted much of his speech to a reply to Stevenson's campaign assertion that the Eisenhower administration has favored big business at the expense of the average American.

"This amounts to saying that your government has no interest in the people of America," Eisenhower said. "This amounts to the charge that your government has betrayed your trust. Such talk is political irresponsibility at its worst."

Police identified the two as the Santato brothers, one 28 and the other 22.

The 28-year-old recently was released provisionally from the Aversa Asylum for the Criminally Insane and was to have returned there Oct. 16 for a checkup. His first name is Egidio. Police could not immediately give the full name of his brother.

The woman, Mrs. Irene Lingeri, was wounded in one leg before she could reach her son, Gianni.

"I want my Gianni," she cried as her companions carried her out.

At noon, the brothers permitted police to carry food for the children to the entrance. Using a teacher for a shield, one gunman moved the food inside.

Considered Key State---

Ike Talks to the Largest Crowd Of Campaign in Pennsylvania

By JOSEPH A. DEAR

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 11—President Ike came here yesterday to worry worried Pennsylvanians Republicans a lift. It's possible they gave him a bigger lift than he gave them.

The crowds were impressive—the largest Ike has had in this campaign. There were clusters of well-wishers along the 16 miles of highway from the airport, and the downtown concentration numbered in the thousands.

The timing of the operation was perfect. Ike arrived just as Pittsburgh was leaving. And many many from the office buildings stayed to cheer him in.

Pennsylvania is considered a key state in this campaign. Democratic candidate Adlai Stevenson whistle-stopped through the state last week, and will be back to visit Pittsburgh, which he missed.

It was in a Pittsburgh TV studio last week that Stevenson said Ike was guilty of "gross misstatement of the record." Last night Ike retaliated by charging his opponents had twisted or concealed facts.

In a sense, Ike's visit and his speech at Hunt Armory here, are a tribute to Stevenson's tactics. Ike once said he wouldn't barnstorm for votes, and he is. And his speech showed he is very conscious of, and sensitive to, his opponent's criticisms.

"The longing of all Americans for peace, prosperity, and progress," Ike said, "is one thing that is not an issue in this campaign."

The real issue he defined this way: "What principles—what policies and programs—can best help our people to gain and to guard these blessings?"

The promise of the years ahead, he said, is that we can know the blessings of peace and prosperity at the same time. We have known them separately in the past, he said. In the 1930's there was peace. In the 40's there was prosperity but no peace.

He said partisan oratory of the Democrats—Mr. Stevenson was not identified by name—has concealed or twisted facts. Ike offered four examples:

"They say that your government cares only for big business...."

"They say that your government has done nothing to check inflation...."

"They say that your government has ignored our children's need for education...."

"Next—in their political oratory—we find a whole series of curious statements falsely implying that this administration cares nothing for the man they rather patronizingly call the little fellow. They say your government is indifferent to labor... negligent in social security... indifferent to the unemployed."

In each instance, Ike cited "facts" to refute the charges. His administration, he said:

Has vigorously enforced antitrust laws, created the small business administration. He said he has twice in his state of the union messages urged Congress to act on the school problems, and said his five year program was rejected by the opposition. The cost

Bailey went up the ladder, carrying a rope, and had nearly reached the top when he began moaning. Carrol went up the ladder to his aid, but complained of hot air in the stack and moments later plunged to the bottom and was killed.

Bailey's body was brought down by firemen. One of his feet had caught in a rung and he was hanging inside the stack, head down.

Justice of the Peace W. C. Bailey said it was obvious that Bailey was suffocated by carbon monoxide as he clung to the ladder inside the campanile—the combination smokestack and bell tower of the mechanical laboratory friend.

The youths and two others intended to climb up inside the smokestack and hang from the top of it an automobile tire, the trophy of the winning section in the so-called tire grab. This is a greased tire, for possession of which groups of students scuffle on a playing field during the events of the freshman guidance program.

The other two youths, Ernest Montague, 18, of Galveston, and James Michalek, 17, of Houston, said they thought that by hanging the tire from the top of the campanile they could keep other groups of students from stealing the trophy.

Bailey went up the ladder, carrying a rope, and had nearly reached the top when he began moaning. Carrol went up the ladder to his aid, but complained of hot air in the stack and moments later plunged to the bottom and was killed.

In contrast, Republicans were ahead for five out of seven Territorial Senate seats on which enough votes had been tallied to establish a trend. One of them, however, was by only a one-vote margin.

They led for all six of the territory-wide offices at stake, although by narrow margins in some cases. They led for 18 seats in the Territorial House of Representatives while Republicans were ahead only for three.

In the Alaska election was watched closely nationally because in recent years the swing of congressional elections has followed the Alaska tide usually swings to sharper extremes.

The swing in favor of the Democrats came largely on big blocks of votes from the populous Anchorage and Fairbanks districts, although it was at Fairbanks that three of the five Republicans were leading for the Alaska Senate.

He broke into the damage suit proceedings with this statement:

"Gentlemen, I know you were called away from the television before the game ended. I have just been told that Brooklyn won, 1-0, in 10 innings."

8 Men Start Life Sentences For Robbery

WALPOLE, Mass. (AP) — Eight men convicted of the $1,219,000 Brink's robbery spent their first day of what is to be a "natural lifetime" behind the massive concrete walls and the steel bars of State Prison.

Superior Court Judge Felix Forte sentenced the men to the prison yesterday "for the rest of their natural lives" with no chance for parole consideration for at least 20 years.

Joseph F. McGinnis, 52, called by the prosecution the brains of the nation's biggest cash robbery, actually was given eight life terms, to be served concurrently, as an accessory before armed robbery, 8-10 years as an accessory before breaking and entering and 2½-3 years for receiving stolen goods.

The other seven were sentenced to life for armed robbery, 8-10 years for breaking and entering and 2 years for conspiracy, the latter sentence to be served in a house of correction after the State Prison terms are completed.

Sentenced with McGinnis were Anthony Pino, 48, laborer; Vincent J. Costa, 42, truck driver who is Pino's brother-in-law; Adolph (Jazz) Maffie, 44, pool room manager; Michael V. Geagan, 47, longshoreman; Thomas F. Richardson, 48, longshoreman; James I. Faherty, 44, bartender, and Henry D. Baker, 49, vending machine operator.

Police and Pastor Don't Like Method Used to Lower Cars

DETROIT (AP) — Police and a pastor didn't take kindly to the method dreamed up by two hotrod drivers for giving their cars that low-slung, dragged-down silhouette.

Officers stopped the young drivers and had them open the trunks. Inside one was a tombstone. The other car had two inside.

"It gives the car a low-slung look," one 17-year-old driver explained.

Police said the stones were taken from a church cemetery. The youths were released after the pastor declined to press charges.

Return From Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schanz, Hughesville, have just returned from a trip to the western states. They visited their son, Dr. and Mrs. Leo Schanz and son in Campbell, Calif., and their daughter, Mrs. Wilbur Hendricks and Mr. Hendricks and daughter of Dufur, Ore. They went to the coast via the southern route through Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico and Nevada, and returned through Idaho, Wyoming, Nebraska, Kansas and enjoyed many points of interest, including the Grand Canyon.

Do your family's food tastes differ? For a quick lunch, put sandwich fillings of various sorts into different plastic containers and place on table with a tray of sliced bread; let each member of the family make sandwiches of his or her own choice. Leftovers in containers can go right back into the refrigerator.

Beauty Contestant Balks at Wearing A Bathing Suit

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP) — Honey-blonde Miss New Zealand said today she has walked out on the Miss World contest because she can't face parading in a bathing suit. And besides, she has hardly a thing to wear.

The reluctant beauty, 20-year-old Jeanette de Montalk, vanished from London two days ago. She was to have competed against girls from a score of nations next Monday for the title of Miss World.

A reporter found her living in a YWCA hotel here, adamant in her decision not to participate.

"I'm finished with it," announced the green-eyed young lady. "I do not want to parade in a bathing costume before hundreds of people."

"Furthermore, I do not own the sort of clothes to compete with some of the girls."

"My wardrobe is only a normal one bought by my family and friends who rallied around at home. Some of the girls have Dior gowns."

Boy Takes Rabies Shots for Bat Bite

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Bill Blackmann Davis Jr. was taking rabies shots today after a bat he preserved in a freezer to show his science class was found to be infected.

Davis found the small bat hanging from a tree near his home. It bit him on the right thumb.

Davis didn't think about the bite and placed the bat in a jar. It died and the boy preserved it for his class. He sealed the jar and put it in a freezer.

Monday the family physician found out about the bite and urged a test. The bat was found to be rabid.

Movie Firms Miss Mark In Search for Mass Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Motion picture companies," said producer-director Robert Aldrich, "are still looking for the mass market. They are trying to satisfy everyone — so they are pleasing nobody."

Aldrich, who in the past 10 years has worked in just about every behind-the-camera job in the studios, wants to make movies suitable fare only for mature, thoughtful audiences.

But, a realist at 37, Aldrich also concedes little chance for controversial films at the present time.

"It's not so much the producers as it is the financial interests which prevent them," he said.

"They are really the ones superimposing their attitudes on your taste; they just won't give you the money to make such films."

The husky director is not only a Hollywood rebel. In pot-shots today after a bat he preserved in a freezer to show his science class was found to be infected.

Davis found the small bat hanging from a tree near his home. It bit him on the right thumb.

He started as messenger boy in one of the Hollywood studios. After the war, he began climbing the directorial ladder and, on the side, wrote screen plays. In 1951 he was an associate producer on "Ten Tall Men" and later directed "Apache" and "Vera Cruz." Four years ago he made a number of television series. Last year he made his first independent pic-

Suiter is a flight chief in the engineering section of F84F fighters of the 561 Strategic Fighter Squadron.

After 8½ years of active duty, Suiter was discharged and then recalled in 1951. He and his wife, the former Miss Arlie Bybee, are both from Fristoe and have two daughters.

The Mature Parent--

Punish to Cure Faults,
Not Stir Resentments

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence
Last night Andy's father gave him a fine punishment.

The boy "forgot" to telephone home from a friend's house, arriving nearly two hours later for dinner. His father waited until he had eaten. Then he told Andy that he could neither visit friends nor have them visit him for a period of two weeks.

Angry, Andy complained of his punishment to his mother. After he'd expressed himself fully, his father called him and asked: "Why are you angry at me? I didn't get you into this trouble. Forgetting did. Why aren't you angry at this forgetting habit that loses you fun all the time instead of at me?"

Then inviting the boy to sit down, he went on. "Just let's count some of the fun that forgetting has cost you lately. First, there was the carnival you wanted to go to, remember? You didn't get to go to it because when Uncle Ted came by to pick you up, mother didn't know where you were."

By the time Andy's father had finished, the boy's resentment had switched from his father as his punisher to his own forgetfulness.

To help a punished child re-direct his anger from us to the inward fault which has got him into trouble is always the first object of punishment.

The second objective is to open his eyes to the fact that his current punishment is just another of many deprivations inflicted on him by the fault.

Punishment that ends in a child's resentment of us, in his fear or

"THE BLASTING OF THE HORNET was an easy job," says Cmdr. Kazuo Yakushiji, 38, at left. Behind is Lt. Cmdr. Junichi Goto, who sank the Oklahoma at Pearl Harbor.

Former Kamikaze Pilots Are Ready to Defend Japan

KANOYA, JAPAN (AP) — Hundreds of young Japanese left this base 11 years ago flying "kamikaze" planes to plunge headlong against American carriers around Okinawa.

This famed Japanese airbase of World War II has shrunk. But strong is the morale of 200 Navy fliers based here to defend Japan from possible Red aggression — this time with all-out cooperation from their former enemy, the United States.

Kanoya, on South Kyushu, 600 air miles southwest of Tokyo, once based seven air wings and 20,000 troops. Now it has only one new Navy air wing with 200 fliers and 2,000 ground personnel.

Cmdr. Heiji Abe, 44, deputy wing commander, however, says, "The morale of my men, without flattering ourselves, is extremely high and is soaring further."

Abe is a seasoned imperial Navy dive-bomber pilot, credited with sinking the U.S. Battleship West Virginia at Pearl Harbor in December 1941.

This reporter, who has seen many other outfits of Japan's new armed forces, found that morale was perhaps the highest when he was shown around in the base and talked with Navy fliers and maintenance men.

"To be very honest," said Cmdr. Kazuo Yakushiji, 38, "We received a morale-booster shot in the arm when the U.S. gave us our newest model planes, P-2V-2 Neptunes, in March."

Yakushiji's 14 fellow pilots flew

Man Is Too Anxious To Get Haircut; Ends Up In Jail

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—The scene was peaceful. A man sat under the white apron in the barber's chair, his head nodding to the monotonous snip-snip of the scissors.

The action and dialogue, according to police, went about like this.

Enter impatient customer, identified as Settle Pearson, 32.

Impatient customer: "I want a haircut and shave."

Barber: "I'm sorry. You'll have to wait. I don't have any empty chairs."

The impatient customer grabs dozing patron by collar and pulls him from the chair.

Impatient customer: "Well, you have an empty chair now."

The apron falls off formerly dozing patron, revealing off-duty policeman Leroy G. Cumming Jr., complete with uniform, revolver and handcuffs.

Patron turned policeman: "All right, buddy. What's the big idea?"

There is a scuffle and the impatient customer runs from the shop, but is apprehended by policeman after a short chase.

Final scene: Impatient customer booked at police station on disorderly conduct charge and, as the curtain falls, is taken to a cell with the aid of three officers.

We Like Senator Tom, Too

One thing Central Missourians like about the idea of sending Senator Tom Hennings back to the Senate is the fact he "knows the ropes" back in Washington.

Missouri's senior senator was a visitor in these parts this week and discussed governmental matters in the able manner in which only one of experience can do. He has been of great service to Missouri since first elected to the Senate in 1950. He has been aggressive and courageous in his representation of our great state. The record of his activities merits praise. His tirelessness in service and his knowledge of the complex workings of our national government has won recognition for him among his colleagues.

By returning Tom Hennings to the Senate Missourians will profit, and so will the nation, by the advancement in rank and prestige of a senator who is dedicated to service in behalf of all the people.

While in Central Missouri, Senator Hennings made many friendly contacts. His dynamic personality was at its best, but just as natural as the grass roots people with whom he shook hands and chatted. He would have stayed longer in this area to meet more people except his campaign managers kept him moving to meet time schedules of speaking engagements — something that usually wears a candidate thin trying to cover the entire state of Missouri.

Central Missourians are glad Tom and his wife stopped in for a visit and a talk or two.

We, like most Missourians, know of no good reason why Senator Tom should not go on representing us in Washington. That's why we think he will lead the ticket in November.

Washington Merry-Go-Round--

Suez Canal Will Be Obsolete in 10 Years

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—What the foreign Ministers meeting at the UN seems to ignore is the need of long-range planning for the Suez Canal and the Near East.

The British and French have been so peevish at John Foster Dulles that for a time just before the New York meeting they refused to give him any inkling of their plans.

But while the world's top statesmen have been haggling over colonialism and legalities, the entire Near Eastern policy of the United States has been on a week-to-week, day-to-day basis.

We have had no long-range plan, no ten-year goal on which to set our sights. Population along the Nile is increasing; the standard of living decreasing. Arab populations are restless. The situation between Israel and the Arab states has been verging on war. Yet the United States has decided its policy on a shifting day-to-day basis. Whatever Mr. Dulles decides on a certain day is American policy; and that may depend on where Mr. Dulles is that day and whom he is haggling over.

Colonel Nasser was picked by Dulles and his Near Eastern experts as the champion of the underdog. But he has spent his money on Russian arms and forgotten about the fate of his people. He now has about $250,000,000 in Russian arms, and to pay for them he has hooked his nation into years to come.

With these arms, Nasser is almost certain to use them. He has to justify their purchase. That's why Israel is so nervous today. She is the only target.

All this requires statesmanship of the constructive, long-range order. Not day-to-day diplomatic haggling.

Iowa, in Balance

Evidently no state in the nation is more misunderstood politically than Iowa, and the misunderstanding seems destined to persist through the campaign year 1956.

It stems from the old notion that Iowa is almost as rock-ribbed Republicans as Maine in presidential elections.

From that point the argument proceeds that if a Republican candidate is sagging in Iowa, he must obviously be in considerable difficulty in the entire country.

But the facts of Iowa's recent election history do not support the contention that it is a top Republican state.

Since Franklin D. Roosevelt came on the scene in 1932 there have been six presidential elections. Iowa has cast its editorial vote right down the middle, three times for Democratic nominees and three times for the GOP.

For contrast, look at Michigan, with heavily Democratic Detroit and other industrial areas. It has chosen Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams four straight times and elected a Democratic senator in 1954. Yet since 1940 it has voted consistently Republican at the presidential level.

Iowa hardly looks rock-ribbed Republican when thus set off.

It has, of course, usually chosen Republican governors and persistently named GOP congressmen. But in 1954 Governor Hoegh, Republican, trailed for many hours and wound up winning by a relatively modest 25,000.

This isn't the whole story by any means. Careful research into Iowa's voting performance shows that in some of the better-off agricultural areas farmers have consistently tended to vote Democratic in presidential years by percentages greater than recorded in the state as a whole.

The more prosperous Iowa farmers appear to have had strong Democratic presidential leanings.

With this sentiment at work, it does not require too great a shift elsewhere to turn the state into the Democratic column. In 1948 some 53 Iowa counties went Democratic (of 99), and Harry Truman took the state.

There are signs, too, that many of the smaller Iowa towns, dependent on farmers for a satisfactory level of business, have steadily been increasing the size of their Democratic vote.

Though Iowa is rated one of the two richest farm states in America, its heavy concentration on corn and hog production has linked its fortunes tightly with government policies on price supports and similar matters.

Thus it is highly sensitive to any price trend or other development which affects its farmers' incomes. The record indicates that when trends are down, or there is a threat of trouble, the sensitive areas turn Democratic.

Consequently, far from being nearly automatic Republican, Iowa has in fact become one of the more delicately balanced states in the nation, politically.

It is likely to be one of the first to turn, rather than one of the last.

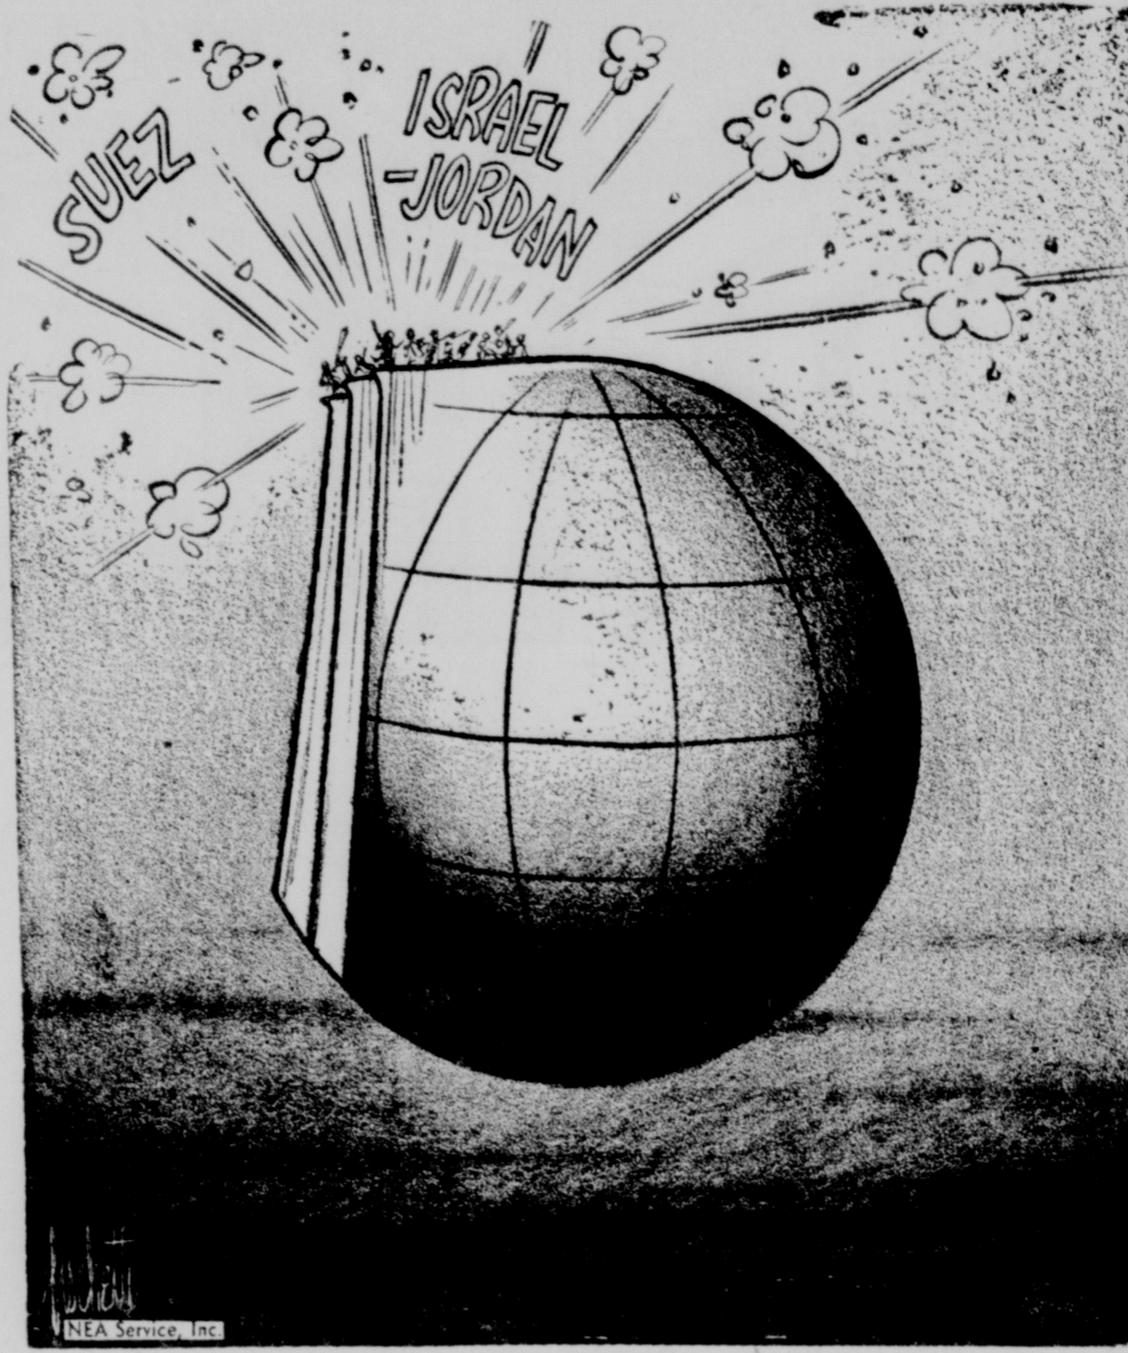

If there is a Democratic landslide in the making in this or any other year, its signs will have to be detected somewhere other than in the shifting of the Iowa corn lands.

Stand therefore, having your loins girt about with truth, and having on the breastplate of righteousness;—Ephesians 6:14

An excuse is worse and more terrible than a lie; for an excuse is a lie guarded.—Popé.

Just One Big Brink

The World Today--

Ike Considers Three Things Important

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (P) — The presidential campaign has descended from the cloud where it started and now — at the halfway mark — is down to earth with both sides charging: "You're another."

This is about par for a political campaign.

After President Eisenhower's speech in Pittsburgh last night it became clear he considers three things — peace, the end of the Korean War, and prosperity — as main selling points in his campaign.

He has made seven speeches so far. In all of them he has spoken about peace. Two of his speeches, in fact, started off on that subject: his opening talk Sept. 19 that in 1955 and 1956, when the Democrats controlled Congress, he called for action on federal aid and got none. He didn't say he let 1953 and 1954 — years in which the Republicans ran Congress — go by without offering a federal aid program. Nor did he say that while the Democrats rejected his particular aid plan, they did offer one of their own which the Republicans helped kill.

These examples — of where each side tells only what makes it look good and the other bad — could be multiplied.

This makes more interesting reading than pious platitudes. But while each candidate belabors the other for not stating the facts, the truth is that neither is stating all the facts but only those that make his own side look good.

Stevenson, accusing the Republicans of killing federal aid to schools, doesn't talk about the particular aid plan, they did offer one of their own which the Republicans helped kill.

These examples — of where each side tells only what makes it look good and the other bad — could be multiplied.

This makes it a little tough on the voter who would like to know precisely where the body is buried since he knows that in this government both parties have to play some kind of role, good or bad, in almost anything that's done.

Senate Group Nears End Of Inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) announced today his special Senate committee is just about through with its investigation of lobbying.

He said there has been a dearth of information from the Eisenhower administration and the public.

McClellan disclosed another administration turndown — at least for the time being — of his request for the evidence of "highly questionable" industry activity cited by President Eisenhower in vetoing the natural gas bill.

And he reported to newsmen a lack of response from the public, the press and from fellow senators to appeals for information about lobbying activities.

McClellan said that of the 96 senators only 42, counting himself, had replied to a committee questionnaire about lobbying. A public appeal to the press, he said, netted no replies.

Although some limited future hearings are in prospect, he said what's left in the $300,000 inquiry is mainly to "find out the weaknesses and try to develop a better law" on lobbying.

The Arkansas senator made public a series of letters exchanged with administration officials concerning his request for "evidence" mentioned by Eisenhower in connection with his February veto of the bill to free natural gas producers from the direct federal controls.

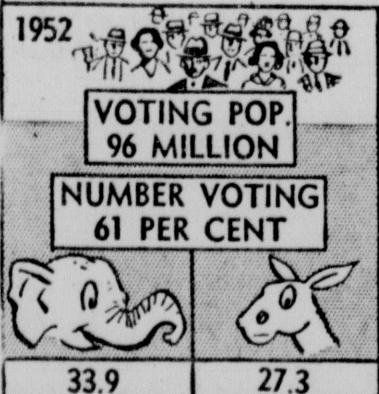

Eisenhower said he favored the principle of the bill but that "a body of evidence has accumulated indicating that private persons... have been seeking to further their own interests by highly questionable activities."

The latest letter to McClellan came from Dep. Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers Oct. 3. It said "much of the available evidence" has already been publicly aired in the row after Sen. Francis Case's (R-SD) disclosure of a $2,500 campaign fund offer from Superior Oil Co. of California representatives before the Senate vote on the gas bill. Case rejected the proffered contribution and voted against the bill.

Rogers said further that since oil company attorneys Elmer Patmen and John M. Neff are under indictment in the case, it would be "inappropriate" to give the Senate committee the Justice Department files on the matter before their trial, set to begin Nov. 19.

Adlai Is Unexpected Guest at Bricklayers, Masons Union Meeting

SEATTLE (AP)—Delegates to the international convention of the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers Union had an unexpected guest at a "beer bust" here last night.

The "intrusion"—by Adlai E. Stevenson—was greeted with a standing ovation and a jocular round of handshaking. The party was being held in a basement beneath the Civic Auditorium, where Stevenson had delivered a campaign address a short while before.

"I heard you were drinking beer and having some fun," the Democratic presidential nominee said, "so I decided to come down and talk to you."

He thanked the delegates for their reception, declined beer with thanks and expressed a hope Sen. Warren G. Magnuson would carry the state "by the big majority I think he will."

And, Stevenson added, "I hope he can carry somebody else along with him," leaving no doubt he was referring to himself.

Man Makes Prediction On Voting; $5,000 To Charity If Wrong

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Jack Swimmer, who says he is a mentalist, yesterday wrote down what he said would be the total popular vote in the nation, the state and the county for the two presidential candidates in the Nov. 6 election. The predictions were sealed in a box and turned over to Gordon Nesvig, Board of Supervisors clerk, in the presence of Supervisor Burton Chace. Swimmer gave Chace a $5,000 check. He said that if his vote predictions are off one vote the check can go to charity.

Myers Wins Mat Thriller, State Crown

Wrestling fans who missed the matches Tuesday night missed the best program seen here in many seasons when Sonny Myers, St. Joseph, and Joe Dusek of Omaha, Neb., battled for the Missouri state title. The match ended in confusion. Myers was awarded the event by Referee Jack Crawford, with Dusek protesting.

Fans who were there are probably hoarse from yelling and screaming for 60 long minutes of excitement from the time the bell sounded starting the fracas, until it clanged the end.

The two giants went for 49 minutes and 45 seconds before a fall was recorded and it was made by Sonny Myers, who used the series of flying scissor headlocks, a knee drop and body smother.

Returning for the next fall period the event ended when the time ran out. Referee Crawford, acting under the Missouri rules allowing the referee to make the decision, awarded the title and trophy to Myers. It was done amidst excitement and over the protests of Dusek.

Dusek claimed they were wrestling under the rules of the American Wrestling Alliance, the winner must take two out of three falls. Gust Karras, the promoter, was "put in the middle" on Dusek's protest and announced he would contact Tom Edwards, the Alliance president at Salt Lake City, Utah, for a final ruling. In the meantime Myers has the trophy and Dusek has memories of one of his toughest ring scraps in several seasons.

During the event Dusek succeeded in opening an old head wound on Myers' head with his continuous pounding. Dusek's head was somewhat shaken up too, but no blood was drawn by Myers.

In the girls' match tempers flared when Lorraine Johnson of Minneapolis, Minn., became angry after she had won the first fall and tore into Referee Crawford tearing off his shirt. The first fall was won in three minutes and 55 seconds over Joan Ballard, using a leg lock. The second fall went to Ballard using a reverse Boston crab, in six minutes and 45 seconds. Ballard took the third fall in similar fashion after six minutes and 25 seconds. But it was not until after the two wrestling artists of the "weaker sex" had plenty of roughhousing in the ring.

The opening fall was won by Mario De Souza of Portugal over Jack Donavan of Leesburg, Fla., in 17 minutes and 35 seconds. The two heavies battled all over the ring before De Souza finally ended it with a series of body slams and a press.

Promoter Karras announced the next matches would be scheduled for Tuesday night, Oct. 23, at which time he hopes to sign Ernie Dusek along with Joe Dusek for a team tag match with Myers and Gentleman Jim Dobie of Independence. The Dusek brothers, known in wrestling circles in team-tag events as the "wrecking crew," have never been beaten as a team.

Si Green, former Duquesne 6 foot 2½ basketball star, is with the Rochester Royals this season. He was the No. 1 choice in the National Basketball Assn. draft.

This TV Show Gives the Serious Side of Jazz Music

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (P)—Sunday evening television entertainment has been considerably enlivened and enriched with the advent of Omnibus on the ABC-TV network.

For its debut Omnibus executive producer Robert Saudek and his staff made a wise and rather typical choice. Composer-conductor

Leonard Bernstein, who has developed into an interesting TV personality, led us on an absorbing odyssey of American musical comedy from its post-Civil War birth to "Damn Yankees" and "South Pacific."

It was a mildly serious look at a mildly frivolous subject. And that is typical "Omnibus" phy and technique: to reflect seriously on the amusing, and to ponder amusingly on the serious.

Bernstein led us on a well-paced journey, lingering over-long only once, in the opinion of one viewer, when he strained a comparison between "The Mikado" and "Of Thee I sing." Typical too of Omnibus productions was the refusal to present "big name" entertainers who might distract from the theme. In short, musical comedy itself was the protagonist.

long a time on television for Miss Shore.

The word is that Sinatra never has been enthusiastic about the new medium of television. After watching him one can only ask: Why not? He's a natural in a musical variety program like the Dinah Shore Show. Hard to hold down, it's true, but Miss Shore held him.

Films Tackle The Loyalty Controversy

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD (P)—In its search for controversy to lure customers to the theaters, the movies are now tackling the touchy subject of the government's loyalty program.

"Three Brave Men," being filmed by 20th Century-Fox, is largely the story of Abraham Chasanow, an executive with 22 years experience in the Navy Department. On July 29, 1953, he was handed a letter that told him he was suspended from duty "in the further interest of national security."

Thus began a nightmare that lasted more than a year. At a loss to account for the action, Chasanow fought against lies, innuendo and secret procedures before finally winning vindication.

The story is being told with Oscar winner Ernest Borgnine as the wronged official and Ray Milland as his lawyer-defender. Produced by Herbert Bayard Swope Jr., the film is being written and directed by Philip Dunne, son of another literary figure, Peter Finley Dunne of the "Mr. Dooley" stories.

Dunne, scholarly-looking, talented screen writer—"How Green Was My Valley," "David and Bathsheba"—turned director—"The View From Pompey's Head"—enthused about his new project.

"It's not just a tract," he said. "The elements of a human, emotion story are there. Some of the things in the real story are so dramatic that we can't use them."

"For instance, there's the matter of the man's community rallying immediately to his support. That would be too obvious, so we are showing that the Navy instituted a review first, which is actually true."

Dunne said that releases had been obtained from Chasanow, his attorney, Joseph Fanelli, and others connected with the case. But actual names won't be used.

"I think the picture will have a good effect abroad," Dunne declared. "You can't just show America as being perfect. The best way to demonstrate our way of life is to point out a sore spot and then show how democracy heals it over. That's the system I used when I was making films for the OWI during the war."

"The fact that we can correct our faults is one of the strengths of democracy."

Missouri Can Show You...

This early Ozark dwelling, made famous by Harold Bell Wright's novel, The Shepherd of the Hills, was the actual home of two principal characters in the book.

Set high in the hills of the beautiful White River country, this typical Ozark cabin overlooks picturesque scenes familiar to the novel's readers. The region has become known as "Shepherd of the Hills Country" thanks to the book's world-wide popularity.

Nearby Lake Taneycomo, created by Powersite Dam (1912), has also made this a popular resort area.

Films Tackle The Loyalty Controversy

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD (P)—In its search for controversy to lure customers to the theaters, the movies are now tackling the touchy subject of the government's loyalty program.

"Three Brave Men," being filmed by 20th Century-Fox, is largely the story of Abraham Chasanow, an executive with 22 years experience in the Navy Department. On July 29, 1953, he was handed a letter that told him he was suspended from duty "in the further interest of national security."

Thus began a nightmare that lasted more than a year. At a loss to account for the action, Chasanow fought against lies, innuendo and secret procedures before finally winning vindication.

The story is being told with Oscar winner Ernest Borgnine as the wronged official and Ray Milland as his lawyer-defender. Produced by Herbert Bayard Swope Jr., the film is being written and directed by Philip Dunne, son of another literary figure, Peter Finley Dunne of the "Mr. Dooley" stories.

Dunne, scholarly-looking, talented screen writer—"How Green Was My Valley," "David and Bathsheba"—turned director—"The View From Pompey's Head"—enthused about his new project.

"It's not just a tract," he said. "The elements of a human, emotion story are there. Some of the things in the real story are so dramatic that we can't use them."

"For instance, there's the matter of the man's community rallying immediately to his support. That would be too obvious, so we are showing that the Navy instituted a review first, which is actually true."

Dunne said that releases had been obtained from Chasanow, his

Steel Band on Girl's Finger Resists Many Efforts of Removal

CHICAGO 4B—A little girl put a stainless steel band on the little finger of her left hand yesterday but she couldn't get it off.

Neither could attendants at three hospitals where she was taken by her mother.

Also stumped was a fire department rescue squad.

Mrs. Ollie Woodard, 34, first took her daughter, Darlene, 7, to the Provident Hospital to have the band removed. Attendants tried water and soap, but the band didn't budge. They suggested the Cook County Hospital.

Doctors and nurses at the County Hospital tried clipping off the band with ring snippers, which didn't work on stainless steel. They suggested a visit to Illinois Research Hospital.

Attendants at Illinois Research had no luck and called a fire department rescue squad. The firemen failed to remove the band. The hospital's building engineer, A rescuer appeared, however. The hospital's building engineer, Francis Gaughan, 40, said he would try a special pair of "diagonal pliers." Three firemen held the squirming Darlene while Gaughan snipped off the steel band eight hours after Darlene had slipped it on her finger.

Location of Actress Is Still a Mystery; Reports Conflict

NEW YORK 4B—The whereabouts of actress Margaret Sullavan remains a mystery cloaked in a fog of conflicting reports.

The husky-voiced, 45-year-old veteran of stage and screen failed to show up to play the starring role in a CBS-TV drama Monday night.

Her husband Kenneth A. Wagg, said afterward she was ill and in a hospital. But he declined to say where.

Another report said she was well and staying with friends somewhere.

A cab driver said he picked her up at her Manhattan apartment Sunday afternoon and took her to a train. Another cabbie reported he picked her up at Greenwich, Conn., yesterday and driving her to the Wagg home nearby.

None of the reports could be verified.

Meanwhile, CBS started looking for another actress to appear in the Studio One play canceled Monday night at a $40,000 loss to the network.

'Harmless' Boric Acid Can Be Deadly Poison to Babies

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.
AP Newsfeatures

Boric acid is a poison and capable of making babies sick.

Boric acid has been used for years. It is only recently that science has traced certain cases of serious illness and even death in babies to poisoning with boric acid.

Boric acid used on a healthy skin does no harm, but used on an injured skin enough can be absorbed to cause trouble.

A baby gets a diaper rash, mother applies generous amounts of pure powdered boric acid, or a boric acid ointment to the inflamed skin. The baby wets his diapers, and the combination of urine and the boric acid makes it easy for the drug to go right through the injured skin and into the baby's blood and cause symptoms of poisoning. One of these symptoms is a rash. With the appearance of more rash not only in the diaper region but elsewhere on the baby's body, mother redoubles her efforts, puts on more and more boric acid each time she picks up the baby to change his diapers. After four or five days the baby is really sick. He has not only a bad diaper rash but the skin on the rest of his body is inflamed too. He has probably developed diarrhea and vomiting.

Unless the boric acid treatment is stopped immediately that baby will get worse and worse.

Two doctors from Montreal have recently reported the stories of four infants brought to their hospital suffering from boric acid

Sedalian Reports 2nd Peach Yield This Year

CLARK WHITE, 509 East Walnut, reported Tuesday that several peach trees on his property have yielded a second time within the same season.

According to White, the trees produced the regular peach crop of fairly large size in early August. Then, he said, after picking the first yield, peaches began to grow on the trees again.

He attributed this abnormal yield to the continuation of warm weather late in the season.

About Town

Mrs. W. D. Smith, 405 West Fifth, has returned from Chicago where she spent the past two weeks visiting her granddaughter Mrs. Robert L. Riley and Mr. Riley. Mr. Riley is an attorney for the Motorola Corporation.

Mr. and Mrs. Jewell T. Foster and family, 1800 South Park, had as weekend guests, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Scappi and family and Mr. and Mrs. Leland Bowen of Kansas City.

For Sports Cars Only

MADISON, Wis.—A giant semi-truck rolling through here had three suggestions printed on its rear doors. One with an arrow pointing to the left said "passing side"; one to the right cautioned "suicide"; and one pointing down toward the huge rear axle said "sports cars."

"We spent most of last night," Brennan said, "calling friends in Washington about it. Then we disconnected all the phones so we could get some sleep."

The most tiresome part of it all, he said, was repeating to questions about his stand on controversial issues: "No comment. After all, my opinions on these matters will be public record very shortly."

Most reports about the new senator identify him in two terms: Roman Catholic and Democrat.

"I really don't understand," he said, rubbing his gray, early morning stubble, "the political significance of either term."

His religion, he said, was part of his personal life. And his church turn the book — adding he would like to do it in person and spend six weeks in Europe while he was there.

This, he suggested, Saarbrücken should be willing to pay for in return for the "priceless" book—as officials of that city now refer to it.

He has yet to receive a direct reply, but learned in an Associated Press story from Saarbrücken that the city apparently had turned down his offer. But they are still pressing for the book's return.

Backer's Service

CASA GRANDE, Ariz.—Backers of the proposed Buttes Dam, an irrigation project, decided to make it easier for supporters to let their congressmen know of their feelings.

They set up a "Buttes Dam or Bust" headquarters, put in stenographers and offered: "You dictate, we write, you sign, we mail."

More than 30 proponents of the dam accepted the offer of free letter writing on the first day.

The Youngest US Supreme Court Justice

By WARD CANDEL
NEA Staff Correspondent

RUMSON, N.J.—(NEA)—In this seaside community of narrow lanes, low houses and high taxes, the morning dawns with a cold mist and U.S. Supreme Court Justice William Joseph Brennan, Jr., in blue and gray striped pajamas making breakfast.

For a man whose life has been overrun by the curious and the congratulatory since President Eisenhower named him to succeed the retiring Sherman Minton, the new, and youngest, justice seems to know exactly what he is doing. In the kitchen.

The toast was golden brown, the bacon crisp and the coffee was so strong that this reporter could hardly get it out of the cup. And at an hour when most men sleepily challenge the world to disturb them, Brennan was turning on a white smile surrounded by gray morning stubble to explain how it all felt.

"I'd be dissembling," he said, "if I said it wasn't heady wine."

His wife said: "You'd better tighten your bathrobe belt. I'm tired. The phone rings all the time and people keep dropping in. I put cream and powder under my eyes to hide the rings. And then the newsreel men come and tell me to put cream and powder under my eyes to hide the rings."

Their seven-year-old daughter, Nancy, called out from the television arena in the living room: "I like reporters, but this bacon is too hard. Daddy, please make me a soft piece."

Mr. Justice Brennan put another piece of bacon in the pan and turned the gas flame up. Then he refilled the coffee cups that sat on the painted white kitchen table.

"The major issue confronting us today," he said in a voice accustomed to major issues, "is where we're going to find a place to live in Washington."

"I'll be sorry to give up this place," his wife said. "But what can we do? Certainly not support two homes."

The home they are giving up is a low, wood-paneled, comfortable house off Conover Lane that used to be a barn on one of the old Rumson estates. Tall windows look out on the two acres of rolling countryside that belong to the house.

"We spent most of last night," Brennan said, "calling friends in Washington about it. Then we disconnected all the phones so we could get some sleep."

The most tiresome part of it all, he said, was repeating to questions about his stand on controversial issues: "No comment. After all, my opinions on these matters will be public record very shortly."

Most reports about the new senator identify him in two terms: Roman Catholic and Democrat.

activities should have nothing to do with his life in the judiciary, an active part in politics in my entire career."

He began his legal life in New York in an established law firm and during World War II he served under the now Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell in the Army Service Forces. After the war, he was appointed to the New Jersey Superior Court and later to the State Supreme Court by Republican Governor Alfred E. Driscoll.

Neither of his two sons is active in politics either. Bill, 23, is a Marine stationed at Quantico, Hugh, aged 20, lives in Red Bank with his wife.

"And I'm not active in anything," Mrs. Brennan said.

"So you see," Brennan said, "politics aren't part of this at all. And most certainly when you're presiding over a court."

He walked into the living room and pointed to two large packages in plain paper wrapper on the floor.

"Those," he said, "are a small part of the cases that will be coming up in the Supreme Court. Chief Justice Warren had them sent up yesterday."

It would take all the strength of a well-fed six-foot man to lift them from the floor.

"Now," Brennan said, "you tell me where politics fit."

The phone rang. "There it goes again," his wife said slowly.

Outside, the midday had cleared and Rumson, N.J., was going to school, to market, to work. At a gas station down the street, the attendant was saying:

"I guess I did hear something about a fellow in town being appointed to something in Washington."
